Whenever you need to screenshot anything, from websites and applications to games and videos, Full Screen Capture offers you the possibility to take a screenshot and save it to file in an easy and quick way. What is new in this version: – Bug fixes This is a free program, it requires no installation, it works online and you can use it from any location on your system. Screenshots Submissions By far the worst utility I have ever used. I set it up to save my screen shots when I minimize the apps, it takes a screenshot, then it flashes the screen and disappears without saving the screenshot! It does not even have any settings to tweak so that it will take a screenshot every time I minimize an app. Unless I want to set up a complex and roundabout process to take a screen shot each time I minimize an app, I'm just out of luck. On top of this, in the past, I've used in the past where the app had a setting that will allow the user to set a delay before the screen shot takes place so that the user knows when the screen shot is about to occur, but it's not there now and this is a big deal to me because if I'm in the middle of a conversation and I minimize an app, I don't want to have to pause my conversation to wait for the screen shot to take place. If they want to use their screenshot feature, they should put some thought into what the feature entails and what would help users. The minute I think that they were paying attention to users and thinking about users, they didn't make the feature work as efficiently as possible. By far the worst utility I have ever used.
