Q: Google Maps SDK iOS: How can I get the geo-coding results in a local variable? I do the request to get a location. The idea is to use the geo-coding as a local variable (the geocoding can't be done parallelly). But the variable is always null. If I re-request the geo-coding (which is done parallelly) in the didFinishLoadingWithGeoResults delegate method, the variable is filled. How can I get the geo-coding results in a local variable? func loadMap(){ var regionString = "" let region = MKLocalSearch.LocalSearch(); region.geoQuery?.geoLocation.loadInBackgroundWithBlock({ (geocoder:MKGeocoder, region:CLLocationCoordinate2D) in self.placeID = region.placemark.place_id self.doSomethingWithGeoResults(region) }) } func doSomethingWithGeoResults(region:MKLocalSearch.geoResults) { regionString = region.results[0].formattedAddress } func loadMaps(){ let localSearch = MKLocalSearch.

The fantasy world of Oador is being plagued by monsters and it's up to the heroes to save all that we hold dear. You can choose from up to three characters with various skills and equipment. The old school combat system offers deep strategic gameplay that will test your skills. The story mode requires just an hour of playing time, while there are 20 hours of fun to be had in the two additional add-on story modes. Key Features: Choose from up to three different characters with their own skills and items. Each one has different weaknesses and strengths, so choosing the perfect hero is key to your success! The old school combat system still needs to be introduced to new players; we have made it simple and easy to learn! Loot, loot, loot - your inventory is overflowing with different items and the chance to obtain a unique reward is at every corner! There are three different game modes which can be played separately or all together, depending on your preference. Characters The majority of players will choose one of the three characters to play. Their names and skills are the only two defining characteristics of the different classes. In the starting game scenario, you will receive one of the following characters at the start of the game: The first one is Ignat, a level 1 character. He has a booming health point total and can use both melee and ranged attacks. The second one is Beinor, a level 2 character. He has a weak health pool and a weak attack power, but at the same time he deals more damage to his enemies, he uses melee attacks and can swing two items at once. The third one is Shum, a level 3 character. He is the biggest and strongest character in the game. He has a huge health pool and a powerful attack power. He can use both melee and ranged attacks, he uses light attacks and his signature ability: Snatch. He can grab an object or enemy and start running around with it. At the same time, if there are a lot of enemies around he will eat all the damage for them. Once he runs out of energy, he has to recharge for a while before he can use his abilities again. Add-On Story The add-on story modes are both available to be played individually. The first one is called The Shade of the Black Hills and it's set during the Golden Age. The scene starts with the community still c9d1549cd

Key Features: - 70 + card skill set❑ - 60 + encounter monsters❑ - Random map of each game❑ Monster Preview - Skill Preview❑ Image caption The figure is now £1.5bn higher than the original figure at the time of the report The number of people who will spend Christmas in England and Wales with the social security system has increased from nine million to 10.4 million, according to official figures. The Department for Work and Pensions said the net cost of the welfare system had increased by £1.5bn over the past year. The number of claimants has increased by 900,000. A previous report from the DWP estimated there were about 1.7 million more people on benefits than the number it estimated would be out of work. 'Real problems' Communities Secretary Eric Pickles said the growth in the number of claimants was a "direct result of the Labour government's failure to reform public services and cut the cost of the welfare state". "These real problems are only getting worse as the bill for these services increases year on year, leaving communities up and down the country facing real problems." The latest figures, published by the Department for Work and Pensions, show the number of new claims have grown by more than a third since Labour came to power in 1997, to almost 4.4 million. In 1997, there were about 3.9 million people claiming benefits compared to the current figure of about 7.3 million. The number of people claiming incapacity benefits has risen by more than a third since 1997, from 1.3 million to 1.8 million. The Department for Work and Pensions also reported that the number of people receiving disability living allowance (DLA) has risen by more than 12,000 since 2010. The DWP said it was critical the government provided income support to those who need it. "The DWP has protected real income for the poorest and ensured people who need it don't struggle to get it. But the government also needs to reduce welfare spending at this time
