The aim of this study was to examine the efficacy of Mindfulness-Based Cognitive Therapy (MBCT) for children and adolescents with an anxiety disorder. Participants were 113 children and adolescents with an anxiety disorder (mixed anxiety and depressive disorders, separation anxiety disorder and generalized anxiety disorder) who were randomly assigned to 8-week MBCT (n = 60) or a wait-list control group (n = 53). The primary outcome measure was a semi-structured interview of reported attentional and behavioral symptoms on the Achenbach Child and Adolescent Psychiatric Assessment-Kid version (CAPA-K). Secondary outcome measures included a 28-day online mood and anxiety diary (Pediatric-SADQ) and a semi-structured interview of parent and teacher reports of internalizing (DISC-10) and externalizing (YSR) behavior problems.
